Chroma Ate (Taiwan)	5.0	For some years McInroy & Wood Ltd (parent of McInroy & Wood Portfolios Limited), has taken an active interest, on behalf of its clients, in the emerging markets. Emerging markets is a generic term used to describe stock markets in developing countries. These countries are situated in four main regions – Asia, Latin America, Central and Eastern Europe and Africa. MW created the McInroy & Wood Emerging Markets Fund in order to afford clients and other investors a well-diversified portfolio of emerging market companies. MW believes there are particularly attractive long-term investment opportunities to be found amongst companies in the emerging markets. This is predicated on the view that the centre of economic gravity is shifting away from the developed economies of the world towards the developing ones. This is due to a series of factors benefiting the developing areas including demographics, liberalisation, capital and technology flows, and a more conducive political backdrop. The result has been a superior rate of economic growth in much of the developing world and this is likely to continue. Through careful selection, this rapid economic growth is likely to translate, over time, into rising profit growth and good stock market returns.

A Word of Caution

You should remember that the price of units and the income from them may go down as well as up. Gains are not necessarily achieved in the short term. Exchange rate fluctuations may also cause the value of an investment to rise and fall. Investment in emerging markets can be subject to risks not normally associated with developed markets. More information about risk may be found in the full Prospectus under "Risk Warnings".
